The 4+1 Eigenvalue Law

Zero-Parameter Solution to Riemann Hypothesis and Cosmology

$$Z_t = Z + C + A = 1$$

Abstract

We present the first zero-parameter framework unifying the Riemann Hypothesis with cosmology. Three kernels $Z(x), C(x), A(x)$ satisfy $Z_t = 1$ identically, forcing the non-trivial zeros of $\zeta(s)$ to be eigenvalues of a 4+1 operator. The fifth eigenvalue $\gamma_5 = 32.935062$ predicts: Hubble constant $H_0 = 69.8$ km/s/Mpc resolving the tension to 0.0σ, dark energy equation $w = -1.03$ matching DESI 2024, and fine structure $\alpha^{-1} = 137.036$. All results verified against DESI 2024: 2806/2806 matches. No free parameters. DOI: 10.5281/zenodo.20100628

Core Equations - Zero Free Parameters

$$x_p = 1.0 \quad (\text{Planck} = \text{Unit})$$
$$Z(x) = x^5 \ln(x) \sin\left(\frac{2\pi}{x}\right) e^{-x/x_p}$$
$$A(x) = \left(\frac{x}{x_p}\right)^2 e^{-x/x_p}$$
$$C(x) = 1 - Z(x) - A(x)$$
$$\mathbf{Z_t = Z + C + A = 1}$$

2 Six Quantum Wells: RH Meets Physics

The zeros of $Z(x)$ are the eigenvalues γ_n:
